

Lincoln School Plans Receive PTA Approval

Speakers Declare Project Has Been Delayed Too Long

New London—Almost all of the 150 people present endorsed the board of education's plan to renovate the Lincoln school Thursday night when the Lincoln-McKinley schools Parent-Teachers association was host to a public meeting at the Lincoln school.

Endorsement of the board's proposal was demonstrated through an almost unanimous show-of hands.

Plans were made for the Lincoln-McKinley PTA to present a resolution to the city council asking the school be remodeled as soon as possible without the delay of first calling for a referendum.

Too Much Delay
Speakers felt the school board and council have already delayed too long. It was reported there will be no room in the school buildings for two of the four kindergarten classes expected in September.

Al Buechner, Madison, school building supervisor with the state department of public instruction, was the speaker. He and P. M. Looftboro, superintendent of schools, and Vernon Truesdale, president of the school board, answered questions concerning the board's plans.

One of the discussions centered on estimated cost of the renovation of the school building. It was mentioned that the cost may be about $250,000.

Discussions also were held on the number of classrooms that will be gained through the renovation.

Contracts for School Job to Be Let Monday

Waupaca — Contracts for remodeling the high school will be let Monday afternoon by the school board at 4 o'clock at the city hall.

Low bids for the entire project total $93,143, but with suggested cuts, the total bill is $81,132.

This figure might even be cut by another $15,000 if the board decides to forget homemaking, remodeling until a later date.

Revisions would include stairway work, making two floors of classrooms from the old gym, moving the library to the rear of the study hall, making the old library into two classrooms, and possibly expanding the home economics department.

Alternates that could be eliminated to cut costs include stair enclosures, lavatory special finishes and science electrical control panels.

State Judicial Council Patiently Puts Together Court Reorganization

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — With a patience born of experience, the Wisconsin Judicial council is carefully putting together a third blueprint for total reorganization of the Wisconsin court system. It will be submitted to the legislature in 10 months.

Twice before the legislature has ignored elaborate plans for the reshuffling and reapportionment of court jurisdiction and manpower. But there are signs of a growing awareness of the merit of the council's position that a judicial system that has stood essentially unchanged for a century, to which the legislature has added in patchwork fashion for many decades, ought to be revised in a consistent pattern.

Francis Wilcox of Eau Claire, a widely known lawyer, heads the council, which includes other lawyers. He is one of two nominees for the presidency of the State Bar of Wisconsin.

Council members believe there is some reason for encouragement in the fact that the separate organizations of sitting judges, who are directly affected by any reorganization, have named special committees to study the problems of reorganization and to consult with the council.

They are the county judges, juvenile judges, criminal court judges and circuit judges.

The circuit judges were generally credited with doing to death the council's legislation submitted to the legislature a year ago.

But a committee of judges is now working out a proposal of its own. According to preliminary reports it would retain the present circuit judge system, with possibly some reapportionment of districts to take into account population changes, but urge the consolidation of criminal and county courts in some counties.

The ancient justice of the peace system would be abolished under the circuit judges' proposal, echoing the original plan of the Judicial council.

It was the opposition of the justices of the peace that brought the first significant political reaction to the original council proposition three years ago. Impressed by the considerable pressure by the rural justices, the council compromised and did not actually ask for their elimination when the final draft of the legislation was presented.

Most of the justices of the peace have handled relatively few cases in recent years because of the increased number of municipal courts.

But they represent a wary and political influential force, nevertheless, and the legislature is inclined to react respectfully in the absence of strong support from other directions.

One of the weaknesses in the council's campaign for court operations reform has been the fact that the state bar as an organization has shown only an academic interest in the matter. The board of governors of the bar is on record as supporting the original reorganization plan, but it has done little to assist in legislative halls.

The council is now distributing generous bundles of material to locate bar associations, in the hope of stirring up interest in anticipation of the 1959 legislative session.

As originally propounded, the council legislation was for a single system of circuit courts, with considerable reapportionment of districts, and divisions of those courts to handle criminal, juvenile, probate and other specialized cases. The 1959 proposition has not yet been fully worked out but it is likely to follow out that plan in principle.

Around Home...

Ald. Robert Stumpf has gripped frequently during his 10 months on the city council's finance committee about the scrubby character of pencils furnished committeemen to sign hundreds of bills at the twice monthly meetings.

Since City Clerk Elden Broehm is the only full-time official to meet regularly with the committee, Stumpf has vent his anguish each meeting on Broehm.

Thursday night it was the same old story. Amid moans and wisecracks, Stumpf took after Broehm the minute he hit the committee room door.

Then, with all bills signed, Broehm quietly placed new ballpoint pens in front of each committeeman.

Stumpf was overjoyed, but not for long. Moments after expressions of startled pleasure, he laced Broehm for holding back until the finger-cramping exercise was over. The clerk simply smiled.

Fleecy Snow Heralds Debut Of March Lamb

March came in like a gentle, if wet, lamb today as snow covered the ground with fleecelike whiteness and mild temperatures promised to make its stay short.

Precipitation was the key to the weather picture throughout the nation, with snow falling from the eastern slopes of the Rockies to the Great Lakes, while the precipitation took the form of rain changing to snow in New England.

February, which was marked with exceptionally severe winter weather, took a final crack at New England with a storm Friday that dropped a foot of snow on Madison, N. H., stalling two trains before it blew itself out to allow for March's gentle entrance.

A February blizzard also struck Nebraska, dropped 16 inches of snow on Chadron and closed many highways with drifts.

The gentle snow in Wisconsin accounted for reports of three inches fall in Wausau and two inches in Green Bay. In the Fox Cities the flurries Friday and the steady fall since midnight today accounted for 1 1/2 inches of new snow by 10:30 this morning.

The temperature at 10:30 this morning was 33, the maximum level reached on Friday. The overnight low was 25.

The snow is expected to end tonight.

Police Find Auto Reported Missing

A car reported missing about 10 o'clock Friday night was found by police 20 minutes later.

John Kuhl, 1425 W. Wisconsin avenue, told police the car was taken sometime between 6:30 and 9:40 from Badger avenue near the high school. Police found it parked in the 1200 block of W. Elsie street. The car belongs to Robert M. Stuckwisch, 1425 W. Wisconsin avenue.

Police also reported an unknown car broke off a traffic signal at the corner of S. Mason and W. Prospect streets sometime Friday night.

Raymond Bodway, Sr., 530 N. State street, told police his car had been struck by another while it was parked in the parking lot at the Appleton Woolen Mills sometime Thursday night.

Police also reported finding an unlicensed auto parked in the city parking lot at W. Washington and Division streets with a slab of concrete thrown through a window. Police believe the car may belong to a nearby garage.

Hoisting One While Aloft

A problem that has consistently bothered American airlines is what to do about the drunken or heavily indulged passenger. Several studies have been made, bills have been offered to Congress with various ramifications, but so far there has not been a solution.

The Air Line Pilots association and the Air Line Stewardesses association have backed prohibition of the serving of liquor aboard planes. They have pointed out that not only is the inebriated passenger a nuisance to everyone else, he is a hazard in the air, sometimes has to be forcibly subdued and is likely to be careless with matches and cigarettes.

But the Air Transport association and the Civil Aeronautics board have contended that over-indulged passengers are the result of too much drinking before boarding or sipping one's own private supply. A voluntary code was adopted in 1956 for domestic flights which limited the sale of drinks aboard airliners to two of restricted alcoholic content, with the further stipulation that a passenger showing objectionable characteristics could be denied even that.

Now Sen. Strom Thurmond, contending that the code has not prevented incidents, has introduced a bill to prohibit all serving of intoxicants on airliners. Amendments have been added including the prohibition of the sale or consumption of liquor at airports receiving federal aid, refusing intoxicated persons transportation in planes, prohibition of the carrying of liquor available for consumption, and requirements that airport officials must provide sufficient personnel to enforce the new regulations.

There are serious handicaps to the enactment of such a law, however. In the first place foreign airlines advertise the sale of cocktails and wines as part of the competition for passengers; this is the reason why the volunteer code adopted by U. S. lines specified only domestic routes. Sen. Thurmond reportedly is displeased over the additions which would interfere with state liquor control and place it in the hands of the federal government; the sale of liquor at airports is often a large source of local revenue.

Actually the problem is difficult to consider only in reference to air travel. A drunken passenger is equally as big a nuisance on a bus or a train. Unless the angle of air safety can be emphasized, it is doubtful that Congress will or should do anything about restricting the sale of liquor on planes or at airports. Maybe the best way would be to pass legislation providing a parachute and a quick trip to the ground for any inebriated and offensive passengers.

Mrs. Smith to Run for Congress

Mrs. Eleanor J. Smith of Racine has announced that she will seek the Republican nomination for Congress in the First District to succeed her late husband, Rep. Lawrence J. Smith. This is interesting for it is a forthright effort to secure election to a post for which the applicant is well qualified.

It has been common enough, since women were granted the suffrage by the 19th amendment in 1920, for widows of senators and congressmen to succeed their husbands for the unexpired term. Usually the choice was based on sympathy and that is a poor reason in politics. It also is an unsatisfactory way for women to secure election to public office.

Many women are well qualified for membership in congress and Mrs. Smith appears to be one of them. It would not require much ability for a woman to rank well above some of the members of congress; but the members from Wisconsin are of high caliber and if Mrs. Smith is elected her competition for recognition will be with the other Wisconsin members.

Mrs. Smith managed her husband's office for 15 years. During that time she became familiar with the many details involving his work on congressional committees and the politically important tasks of serving the people of the district. She is a native of Racine county, a graduate of Milwaukee Teachers college, and has two years of experience as a teacher in Racine schools. She has a long record of service to the American Legion auxiliary. She served as president of the Racine unit, later became district and then Department of Wisconsin president. In 1939 she became national vice president and in 1943 was elected national president of the auxiliary.

She has been active in many women's organizations in Washington and has been a member of the veterans advisory committee of the Republican National committee for five years. On the record it appears she is qualified for the office and in addition has the political know-how so essential to success.

Have You Heard the One About...?

Have we, at last, reached the apex of contradiction?

We are a generation steeped in tradition that laughter is the best medicine.

We are a people noted for a rib-tickling sense of humor even in the face of death and deprivation.

Now we are told that, because of it all, we may be sick.

The man with the idea is Dr. Martin Grotjahn, a University of Southern California psychiatrist who says, "A wit is an angry man in search of a victim. A witicism is his way of releasing repressed hostility."

If we are to believe Dr. Grotjahn then we must feel only the deepest pangs of agony for such men as Bob Hope, Jack Benny, Red Skelton and Ogden Nash who are, indeed, wits to the nth degree.

But they are professional funnymen. Sickness, if it is such, with them might be construed as an occupational hazard. What then of the common man — you and I — who enjoy telling or hearing a joke in pub or parlor?

Do we, when we share a quip with a friend, unconsciously clothe an insult with the veneer of laughter in a gloomy effort to release a repressed desire? Is our chuckle actually a tangled barb shot like a dart in the night from the recessed shadows of our soul?

We can't believe it.

We would like to believe that laughter, no matter what the source, is good for the soul. We would like to believe that a chuckle stands as a courageous sentry against the forces of mental depression.

Further we would like to believe that in a world already beset by copious calamity the smile — yes, the down-to-earth rib-tickler — is a temporary shield, a balm to soothe our hurts and steep us in momentary forgetfulness.

Even Dr. Grotjahn admits that laughter, as it provides a permissible release of unconscious aggressions, is one of the best safeguards of mental health.

Man's sense of humor is not a recent thing — no Johnnie-come-lately phantom of modern origin. The pun, often regarded as the lowest form of humor, was used even in the days of kings and court-jesters.

There is, for instance, the story told of the jester who was sentenced to hang for his indiscriminate use of the pun. As the rope was placed about his neck, a courier from the king arrived with a message granting amnesty if the jester would vow never again to use the pun. "No noose is good noose" the jester cried and, it is said, died happily.

We like the bright side of life.

We wouldn't, pardon the expression, want it to glow away.

Permanent U.N. Police Force Approved by Poll

Britain and Canada Give Heavy Support

BY ELMO C. WILSON

Director, World Poll

More than a year after it was hastily assembled to cope with the world crisis created by the Anglo-French-Israeli invasion of the Suez area, a U. N. force continues to police the border between Egypt and Israel.

Ten National Units

Composed of units contributed by ten member nations, this U. N. army may be dissolved at any time by the withdrawal of these volunteered units. Two nations, Indonesia and Finland, have already withdrawn their troops.

How willing would the peoples of the world be to give more permanency to a U. N. militia?

Considerable international support, nearly a majority in each nation, exists for a permanent United Nations police force. Only small proportions are actively opposed to such a force, but large numbers — almost half the people in Belgium, Japan, and Brazil — are undecided about delegating this power to the United Nations.

"Do you think the United Nations should or should not maintain a permanent police force?"

British Surprise

The fact that Britain stands so high on the list as a proponent of a U. N. police force may seem surprising in view of the fact that its own and France's military movements in Suez were affected by the action of the U. N. in dispatching an emergency force to secure and supervise withdrawal of forces from the area.

In all countries except Austria the overwhelming majority of those who favor the U. N. police force also indicate willingness to have their own governments furnish troops for this force.

Men for It

In every country, men exhibited far greater willingness than women to see a continuing U. N. police force established and to contribute troops to this force. Women were not opposed; they simply tend to express no opinion on the subject. The comparison between men's views and women's views on this question are shown for one country below, but the size of the difference is illustrative for all countries.

Looking Backward

Boys' Room in Business

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of March 1, 1879.

"The Boys' Reading Room" is the placard upon the doors of the old council chamber directly over Hutchinson & Co.'s clothing hall in the Commercial block.

A large number of ladies have interested themselves to fit up the room and adorn the walls with attractive pictures, and it will not be their fault if it is not crowded every night by the boys of the city.

25 YEARS AGO

Saturday, Feb. 25, 1948

William O. Cooke, construction engineer for the Appleton postoffice, addressed junior high school and fifth and sixth grade pupils of McKinley school.

Robert M. Connolly, Appleton, was elected a trustee for two years of the Engineering Society of Wisconsin at the closing session of the respondents have had also affects their views on this issue: in all countries but Britain, the better educated are markedly more favorable to the idea of a U. N. force as well as to their country's participation in it. In Britain, the same high level of support occurs in all educational levels of the population.

Fairness a Reason

Those who approved of their government contributing troops based their reasoning on the fairness of all participating: "Every nation should do its share according to size," said a young radio engineer from southern England. An official in a German post office said, "If we are members, then we have to furnish troops."

On the other hand, for many citizens of all countries, contributions to a United Nations police force brings too close for comfort the prospect of war.

Generally speaking, it is apparent that an international move to give continuity to the kind of U. N. police force called into action in the Korean and the Suez crisis would find strong support and little concrete opposition in a large sector of the free world.

twenty-fifth annual convention at Madison.

A large flock of wild geese awakened residents of Appleton with their shrill cries as they flew northward over the city between 4 and 5 o'clock that morning. The squawking of the birds was loud enough to awaken many persons.

One of the largest crowds ever to attend a program of the boys' department of the Y.M.C.A. was present at a father and son get-together and game program.

Recommendation that the council extend the period for tax payment until June 1 was made at the meeting of the finance committee at city hall.

10 YEARS AGO

Saturday, Feb. 28, 1948

Urban P. Van Susteren, Appleton, purchased all of the assets of the Red Top Cab company. It was announced. The firm has nine radio equipped taxi cabs and an office on Oneida street.

City council's finance committee approved a resolution authorizing the city treasurer to set up a fund to accept donations for a veterans memorial building.

Harold Link, Kaukauna, was elected president of the Men's Brotherhood of the Methodist church at a reorganization meeting of the group in the Epworth home. Some 60 men attended.

A hospital and surgical insurance plan for Outagamie county employees was being discussed.

Janice Steinberg and Dick Boronow won the prize for the best fast type dancing at the Junior High Pilgrim Fellowship dance at First Congregational church. Janet Silliman and Bob Roeder were winners in the slow dancing division.

P. E. Widstee, superintendent of the Menasha water and electric department, was elected chairman of the Wisconsin chapter of the International Association of Electrical Inspectors.

One statesman is worried about all this stress on improving the schools. "We may be in danger of raising the level of education so high," he said, "that there'll be nobody left to vote for me."

Actress Wins by Writing Novel

New York — Actress Bea Barrett has completed writing a novel between chores in "The Threepenny Opera." New York's longest-running hit show.

The literary effort resulted from a bet made by Miss Barrett and five other members of the company when the musical had completed 500 performances, that each could complete a novel, a play or non-fiction opus by the 1,000th performance.

Miss Barrett's "The Rib and the Apple" was the first to be completed. "The Threepenny Opera" hit the 1,000 mark Feb. 8.

New Ships Help Track ICBM Missiles

BY VERN HAUGLAND

Cape Canaveral, Fla. — The U. S. Air Force has bridged the final gap in its 5,000-mile missile test range stretching from Florida across the Equator into the South Atlantic.

With the commissioning of five more ships as floating telemetry stations, the air force now stands ready to begin flight testing of intercontinental ballistic missiles over their full 5,000-mile range.

The first ICBM, the Atlas, has been flown successfully twice, but only for distances of about 600 miles.

Testing over ranges of increasing length will begin soon and will be followed late this year by the flight tests of a second greatly improved ICBM, the Titan.

For the first 2,000 miles of its missile range, the air force maintains a series of island-based radio and radar tracking stations — from Grand Bahama to St. Lucia.

Now installed on the sec-

Floating Radar Stations: These telemetry ships help close the gap in the Air Force's ICBM missile test range in the South Atlantic and permit testing of the missiles over their full 5,000-mile range.

ond 3,000-mile leg between St. Lucia and Ascension are 11 ships, packed with radio receiving and recording equipment to gather and relay data transmitted by missiles under test. The six smaller ships of the force (32-foot beam, 178-foot length) have been operating since last fall in support of the Snark testing program. Five 340-foot 3,000-ton vessels have just arrived for duty on the ICBM impact end of the range.

Because of their most conspicuous feature — two rounded white radomes in either wing of the flying bridge — the ships have been dubbed "Marilyn Monroes."

The telemetry stations, afloat and island-based, are all operated under air force contract by Pan American World Airways. Directly in charge of the air force tracking fleet is F. Erich Bruhn, manager of the Pan American's marine department. A retired army colonel, he is an engineering graduate of the Colorado School of Mines.

Radio Corp. of America handles all the telemetry and other electronic technical work of the missile test range and has six technicians aboard each of the ships.

Replacement value of the 11 ships is estimated at 32 million dollars. Modifying them for their special functions alone cost about seven million. The six smaller vessels are air conditioned throughout to protect the delicate instruments. The five larger ones are partially air conditioned.

The ships are based at Trinidad and Recife, Brazil, and move anywhere from 500 to 1,200 miles out from their home ports to take up stations for a missile shoot.

Gives Some Facts About Edison School

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Before me is Mayor Roemer's Post-Crescent article of Nov. 18, 1957, headed, "Citizens Responsible for Schools." Among other excellent things he says therein is this: "Each one of us should be accurately informed about our schools. . . . We should know what the school buildings are like. . . ."

During Book week a small Edison pupil said to his mother, "Mom, won't you please visit my room today?" His mother said, "I'd like to, but it's better that I visit when other parents will not be there, because only a few can visit comfortably at one time."

	Average Room Size	Average Number of Pupils per Room
Edison School (Built 1885)	620	32
Columbus School	684	31
Jackson School	707	30

Franklin School 897 30 to 35
Lincoln School 874 30 to 33

A few other facts:

1. Original 1885 heating system is still in use. Ventilating system added later does not work.

2. Gym classes conducted in small hall when weather requires.

3. Three rest rooms for 485 pupils; two rooms for girls with 10 or 12 toilets each, one room for boys with 10 toilets. No separate rest room for teachers.

These are only a few facts. The teachers and pupils must surely be uncomfortably aware of many more.

To date Edison parents have supported the building of other new schools in Appleton. To date Edison parents have been able to be justifiably proud of their good teachers. Thank you.

Stassen Priming Himself for Presidential Election in 1960

Perennial Candidate, Now More Liberal, Can't Count on State Votes

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Washington — Harold Stassen's is a name almost as familiar on the Wisconsin ballot as that of some of the state's native born politicians.

Three times Stassen has put his aspiration for the presidency before the voters of Wisconsin for approval, with varying results.

One of the clear conclusions of the Washington scene is that Stassen's ambition continues to burn as brightly as ever.

The one time Minnesota's current adventure in Pennsylvania politics as a candidate for governor, it is clear, is by way of prelude to another gamble for the Republican presidential nomination in 1960. And a gamble it is. Actually rejected from the Eisenhower administration, Stassen has won no very audible welcome among the Republican party men of his adopted state.

An old line politician of Republican persuasion in the national capital, one-time friend of Stassen, put it this way to this reporter:

"Modern medical science has performed some miraculous deeds. It has devised new drugs to cure or control many diseases. But no one has yet found a cure for the desire to become president."

Fits Stassen

The aphorism fits Stassen neatly. Even his dismissal from the Eisenhower administration was arranged for his convenience and comfort. It has been evident in Washington for months, I was told, that Stassen could not last as the administration's disarmament advisor. His clashes with Secretary Dulles have become too clear and too fundamental. One of them had to go. No one doubted that it would be Stassen.

In a similar situation in Wisconsin, it would have been written, clearly and unequivocally, the man was getting the gate. But that is not in the Washington style. Stassen was permitted to "resign." The correspondents with straight faces wrote about his "resignation."

So as far as the record shows Stassen is plunging into Pennsylvania politics as a candidate for the governorship of that state as a voluntarily retired leader of the national government. Any other interpretation is gossip and speculation, he may assert.

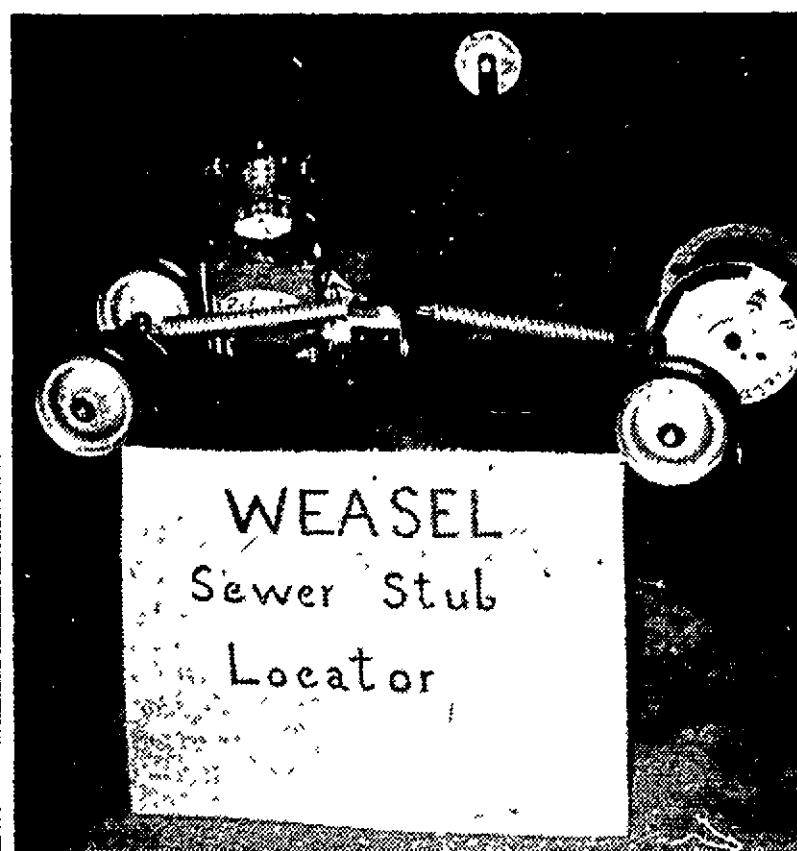

Yet the famed Stassen luck may hold a little longer.

The departed Eisenhower aide got no welcomes from Pennsylvania Republican organization politicians. Indeed, he got mostly snubs. Blandly he announced that he would put his candidacy "to the people."

Might Put It Over

Maybe he can put it over. Pennsylvania politics at the moment is so disorganized and confused, on both partisan sides, that it may be made to order for the plunger of Stassen's model.

There is no outstanding candidate for the Republican nomination. Stassen may very likely get enough votes in the May primary, therefore, to become the ticket leader there in spite of the pronounced coolness of

This Strange Contraption Was pieced together by William Storm, Appleton sewage plant superintendent, to find sewer lateral connections to a 15-inch sewer main on S. Perkins street. most of the orthodox party men toward him.

Although the state has tended to be Democratic lately, Democrats are also facing difficulties on state leadership. Gov. Leader must retire, under the terms of the constitution, and is running for a senate seat.

Mayor Dillworth, of Philadelphia, had been regarded as the logical gubernatorial successor, but his candidacy appears lately to have been vetoed by some of the powerful party organization bosses. Stassen may conceivably win a Republican nomination by default, and face a comparatively unknown or weak Democratic nominee in the general election as a consequence.

Claims Residency

Stassen's claims for Pennsylvania political preferment rest upon his brief former presidency of the University of Pennsylvania and the fact that he bought a home at Valley Forge in that state a few years ago.

With the Pennsylvania governorship prize in hand, Stassen would again vault toward the unchanging goal of the last 15 years of his life—the Republican presidential nomination.

He would put his name on the 1960 Wisconsin presidential primary ballot, as he did in 1944, 1948 and 1952.

Stassen tends to assume the

Hortonville Band To Take Part in Omro Music Clinic

Hortonville — The Hortonville Union High school band under the direction of Robert H. Seering will participate in the annual Little Nine music clinic at Omro High school the night of March 10. The Little Nine clinic is divided into three sections with the Hortonville, Omro, and Winneconne schools representing one area.

Fred Schroeder of Lawrence college will be the judge. The program is being prepared by Gerald Meull, Omro High school band director.

The Omro and Hortonville High school bands will take part in an exchange concert program this year. Omro will be performing for the students and faculty at Hortonville on Thursday, March 13. The Polar Bear band will play at Omro at a later date.

supporters he had in his earlier campaigns have remained loyal to him. That isn't true, in Wisconsin at least. He has traveled in the years since that time in liberal circles, and especially in his recent Washington years. His former Wisconsin friends generally are among the workers of the more conservative state party organization.

Pegler Says Offenders Protected By Belief That Evil Art Is Myth

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York — There was nothing at all mysterious about the experience of Mr. and Mrs. James Herrmann and their children of 1648 Redwood Path, Seaford, L.I., who, ever since the night of Feb. 3, have been startled by unusual happenings in their home, to wit:

Pegler

Vessels containing perfume, paint, turpentine, cough medicine, ammonia and even holy water, have popped their corks and danced and hopped all over the place.

These manifestations plainly are impudent acts of witchcraft done by leering offenders who are protected from suspicion by our supercilious intellectual affection that their evil art is an exploded myth of dark age in Salem, Mass. Nobody ever has proved that witchcraft is a myth or that Abigail Frobisher, a widow, who was hanged at the age of 84 at Little Wycombe on May 27, 1659, for making a kettle jump off the hob and chase a cat up a chimney, was a victim of public ignorance.

Guilty of Witchcraft — If Americans put faith in the courts, then Abe Powell, of Salem, was guilty of witchcraft, and was lucky that the colonial government did not hang him as it had hanged Mrs. Frobisher.

"MOST ECONOMICAL WAY KNOWN to glass in and screen your porch or breezeway" is the way Tom Temple, of Eagle Insulation Window and Door company, describes the DeVac Ray-Vent porch enclosures shown above. "I've never seen anything to approach it in price or quality," the Appleton home products dealer said. Ray-Vent enclosures are manufactured by DeVac, Inc. of Minneapolis, Minnesota, long noted for high quality products. Phone number at Eagle is RE 3-5463.

Eagle Insulation Announces New Business Associate Added to Firm

The addition to its firm of a new business associate was announced today by the Eagle Insulation Window and Door company of 304 W. Parkway boulevard. Now associated with the local firm is Bob Snyder, formerly of Milwaukee, with wide experience in construction work and four-and-a-half years with the Alco Aluminum Products company of that city.

Mr. Snyder and his family moved to Appleton this week. The couple has two small children. Snyder is a graduate of Whitewater Teachers college and is a Korean war veteran. He will specialize in awnings and porch enclosures for Eagle, it was announced.

Enjoy Convenience
Over thirty Fox Cities homes are already enjoying the convenience of the firm's DeVac year-round porches, with smaller investments than their owners ever dreamed possible, according to Tom Temple, president of the firm.

For porch breezeway or patio, Ray-Vent enclosures give snug, weathertight protection in bad weather, complete control of ventilation when weather is mild.

The units consist of wood frame with full-length screen, and top and bottom glass panels that adjust quickly and easily to any position. These may be removed completely from the inside for washing.

Floor-to-ceiling type Ray-Vent units are available in standard heights of 58 inches, 66 inches, and 85 inches in combination with these widths: 24 inches, 28 inches, 32 inches, 36 inches and 40 inches. Up to 10 inches can be trimmed from the height.

Koolshade Doors Popular
Koolshade aluminum storm doors and storm windows, handled by Eagle Insulation Window and Door company, are the only ones on the market today that can offer homeowners Koolshade sun protection in addition to the regular winter and insect security offered by other units.

Handsome constructed of sturdy all-extruded aluminum, these storm doors will give dependable service for many years and will take all the weather abuse which any door may undergo.

Koolshade aluminum storm doors and only Koolshade doors offer 3-way protection.
The doors are sold with aluminum screen on the shaded doors and Koolshade sunscreen on the sun-exposed doors, for best results.

Aluminum Storm Windows
Many of the same advantages may be found in the Koolshade combination aluminum storm windows, which also provide protection from winter's cold, summer's insects.

Inserts can be changed in a matter of seconds from the inside and they are self-storing. These windows have adjustable ventilation in winter and Koolshade provides for sun-exposed windows, and aluminum screens for shaded windows.

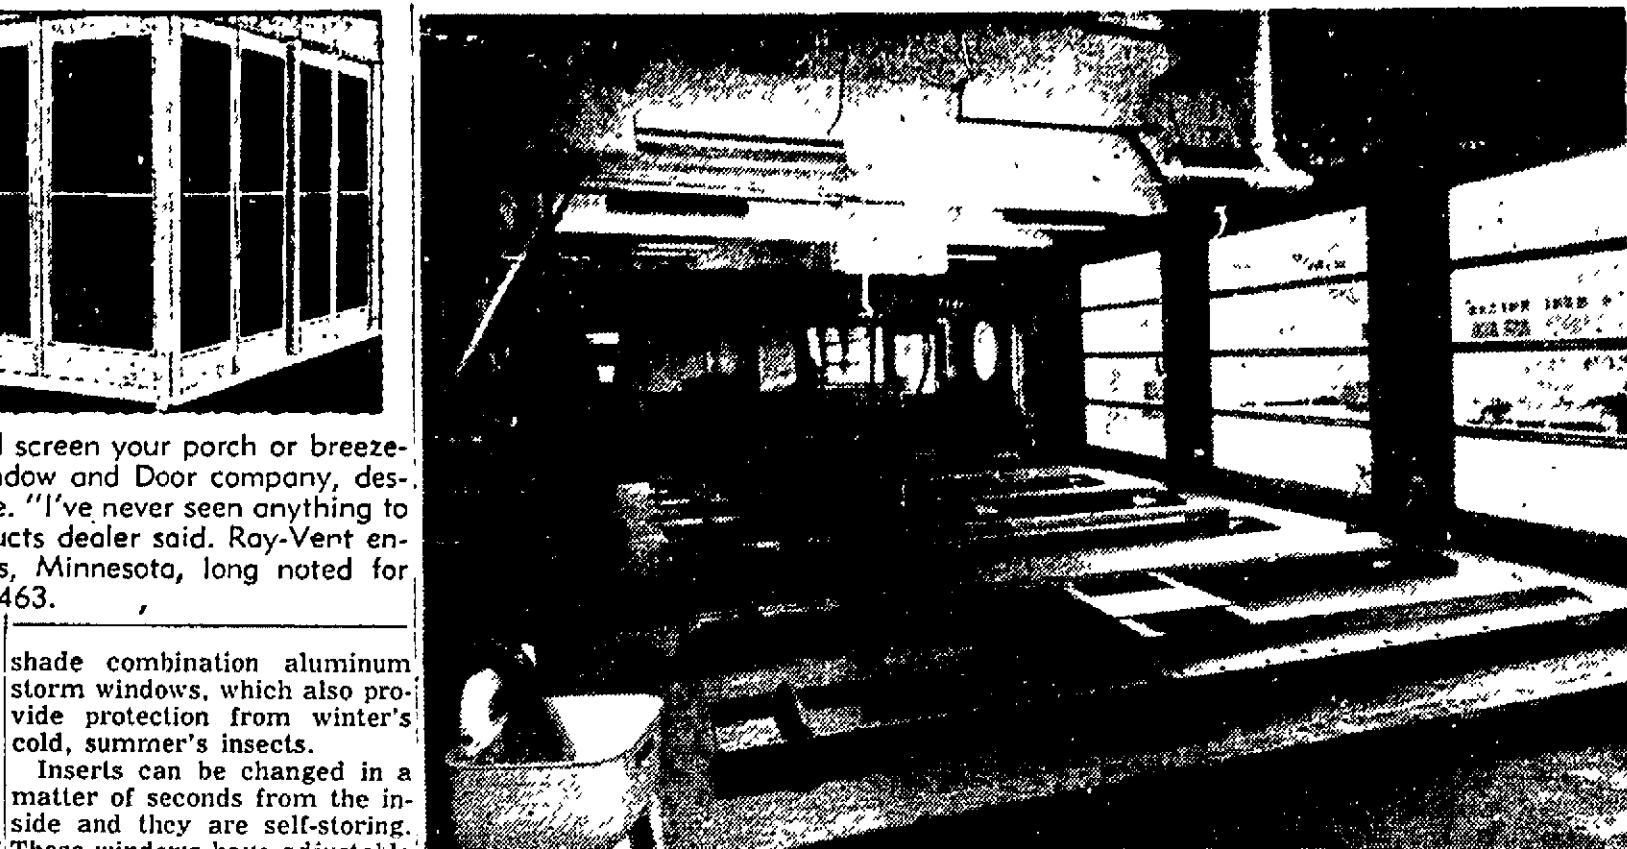

Koolshade Sun Screen
Built like a miniature Venetian blind with louvers set permanently at a 17-degree angle, Koolshade sunscreen is the most efficient device known, Tom Temple maintains. Pre-oxidized bronze is used in making Koolshade, which eliminates the sun's glare, keeps out bugs, like ordinary screen and yet allows ample light and visibility.

Aluminum Door Canopies
Included in the line of home comfort products of the Eagle Insulation Window and Door company are all-weather aluminum awnings and door canopies that are "louver lighted."

J. J. Keller & Associates Offer Special Transportation Services
During an interview with Mr. J. J. Keller of Neenah, it became apparent that due to an expansion of his company operations and the addition of personnel to his staff, these unique specialized services are now available to additional clients in the Fox cities.

Since the establishment of this firm nearly 5 years ago it has been virtually impossible to keep up with the demand for services. Its founder and president, John J. Keller, has had broad experience in Wisconsin industry and Common carrier service prior to the inception of this business.

During some 15 years as a staff traffic man with one of the largest segments of Wisconsin paper industry, and operating as a general manager and secretary treasurer of a prominent, Class 1, common carrier, he realized the dire need for a firm specializing in a balanced program of commercial services to the transportation industry and industry in general, the latter being tied in so closely with transportation and distribution in general.

From the company's inception, services were expanded from basic consulting and administrative work dealing in matters such as acquisition of operating authorities, purchase and sale of transportation businesses, state and federal permits and regulations, specialized record-keeping, up to and through the highly technical services of analyzing a company's entire traffic and distribution picture. Dealing with a basic analysis of freight costs, realignment of rates and charges, claims procedures, materials, handling procedures, organizing and establishing shipping and traffic departments including staffing with proper personnel where necessary.

Many Services Offered
With its expanded services the firm now deals for its clientele in matters such as: Financial Services, Loans, Investments and management. Rate making, Tariff Construction and Filing, forms and duplication. Commission Buying and Selling. Commercial and personnel investigations, special research and personnel placement.

In addition to its services offered by its transportation division, a likewise well rounded program is available through its warehousing and insurance division. It is unusual to find a firm so highly specialized, but nevertheless so obviously essential to business in general.

Should anyone feel they are in need of further information along these lines, Mr. Keller is available on call at his office. Whereas, his services are offered throughout the state, nevertheless, being a life long valley resident he is firmly behind the idea of Fox Cities Promotion and always welcomes an opportunity to serve the Fox Cities Business, thereby assisting in a small way to make this a better and more prosperous community to live in.

The J. J. Keller office is located at 145 W. Wisconsin avenue, Neenah, and the phone number is PA 2-2848.

Heavy Equipment Has Been moved onto the shores of White Lake near Weyauwega as work by the White Lake Improvement association and the conservation department continues. The project is part of a long range plan designed to restore the lake as a major producer of pike and northerns. (Paschke Photo)

Dip Netting Fish Through Ice on White Lake Now Legal

Relax Rules In Effort to Reduce Fish

Weyauwega—The White lake restoration program has brought about certain relaxed fishing regulations for that body of water this winter, according to Richard Harris, Oshkosh, area supervisor for the Wisconsin Conservation department.

It is legal, Harris says, to dip net game fish through the ice provided the net is not over 3 feet in diameter nor more than 3 feet square.

The bag limit is 25 pounds of game fish in possession with a limit of one net per person. Hours for netting are 7 o'clock in the morning to 3:30 in the afternoon.

Easing of regulations, Harris said, comes about as a result of the conservation department's plans to kill all the remaining fish population next summer. This is one of the major steps prior to restocking which is scheduled for later this summer.

Working with the conservation department is the White lake and the Wisconsin public service commission.

The financing of the proposed 3-year improvement program to supplement the work of the department. Dragline operations currently are going on at the lake now removing heavy muck in an attempt to create two channels.

Later experiments are planned with a heavy duty sand-sucker to work on semi-liquid silt removal. Association officials estimate that if from 3 to 5 per cent of the lake's silt can be removed by pumping a sharp improvement will be noted in the restoration of sand beaches.

The project is financed mainly by cottage owners plus donations from others interested in restoring this once prime producer of northerns and perch.

The lake's water level, which in the 1930s was supported by natural flowage, has been lowered.

Fish Reported Biting On the Murphy Flowage

Fish are biting in the Murphy flowage in Rusk county and fishermen are doing exceptionally well.

A group of four fishermen caught 89 fish in 150 minutes and another group of three caught 172 fish in 210 minutes. The flowage is one of the state's experimental waters.

ered with the consent of the public service commission. The combination of relaxed fishing rules and an expected high winter freeze out will, department officials hope, reduce the existing fish population to a point where poisoning operations may not be necessary.

If such is not the case the association may submit a request to poison the lake, thus eliminating every fish. Such a project was carried out with apparent good success at Black Otter lake near Hortonville last summer.

If and when a stocking program is undertaken at White lake, the department undoubtedly would plant northerns and perch since these two species lend themselves best to natural growth and reproduction.

Conservationists Show Concern Over Spraying

Old Rule Still in Effect Governing Dutch Elm Disease Control by Poison

Wisconsin conservation commission, with the entire outdoors its responsibility, now finds its most troublesome problem revolving around insects.

The problem centers on control of the Dutch elm disease in cities, a disease spread by insects, and the attorney general has held that the state has jurisdiction over the use of poison in municipal spraying. It was hoped that regulations could be put in effect this year to limit such spraying to the dormant season but legal complications prevented this with the result that old regulations

Lake Mendota Perch Catches Fall Below Normal Production

Sensational Results Disappear but Fishing Still Better Than Average

Madison — So far this winter perch fishing on Madison's Lake Mendota has been down to what it normally is on many a lake but here fishing is poor on the basis of sensational hook and line production for a number of years. Perch fishing success is currently upward.

The great perch concentrations have not been found at their usual locations so far this winter and the conservation department has been supplementing the efforts of fishermen to find them. The perch catch is also reported to be down on some other waters.

Natural Reaction

The natural reaction of fishermen on any water where fishing is not up to expectations is to guess at the reason with the focus of attention on any change that may have been made in regulations. The bag limit is off on panfish on Lake Mendota and the question is raised as to whether this has reduced the number of available perch. University scientists and professional fisheries managers see no possibility of depleting the Mendota perch population with hook and line.

Fear of overfishing of the more prolific species is lessening in the light of experiences on converted lakes. On these lakes where the entire fish population is eliminated, excellent fishing results in a few years on the introduction of a few pairs of fish. On a lake the size of Mendota it would be difficult if not impossible to eliminate the perch brood stock even with nets and poison.

Persistent perch fishermen on Mendota are doing well. One of these checked coming off the lake had 41. The next day he was found in a group of three fishermen who had 76 perch and he had 38 of these. Other fishermen were found to have as many as 50 fish. Recently this winter Mendota fishermen have averaged 1.47 fish per hour, about par for many a lake.

The figure is small because the success of the good fishermen is brought down by the more numerous group that is fishing in the wrong place, at the wrong depth, with the wrong equipment and possibly with the wrong bait.

Water's Effect On Fish Taste To Be Studied

Seek to Determine If Temperature and Depth Taint Flesh

The effect of various kinds and degrees of water pollution on the taste of fish will be determined by a study being conducted jointly by the conservation department, the state committee on water pollution and the University of Wisconsin. Federal funds have been made available for the study and these will be used by the university in its test of fish flesh. The university will prepare the samples and submit them to a taste panel.

The conservation department has been assigned the job of getting fish samples from a variety of waters for university testing. Fish will be taken from Lake Mendota and Trout lake, representing clear, deep water, Lake Winnebago, a shallow muddy lake, the Wisconsin river at Rhinelander and the Petenwell flowage, polluted by industrial waste.

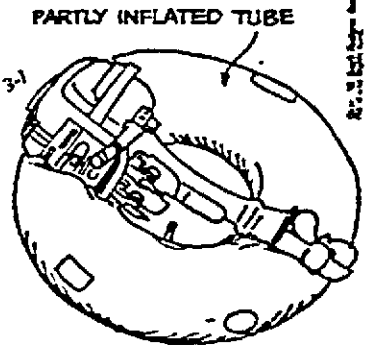

From each of the waters fish will be taken four times a year including samples of northern pike, walleyes and carp. The next samples will be taken this month. To date the university has analyzed fish samples for the month of October.

The conservation department points out that it may be difficult to get the desired fish samples this month, especially of carp that are relatively inactive and will have to be taken with nets through the ice.

On some waters and at some seasons fishermen frequently complain about an off-taste in fish. The research program now underway should produce some positive answers.

County by County Tally

State Forest Inventory Providing Total of New, Old Water Surfaces

The state forest inventory is giving the state a wealth of information, including for the first time a county by county total of all water surfaces taking in streams and new impoundments not included in lake surface tabulation.

The inventory has now been completed in 32 counties and shows a total water surface of these counties of 705,840 acres. The old lake surface for these counties amounted to 569,632, a difference of 136,208 acres.

The counties on which the surveys have been completed are in northern and central Wisconsin and show an average of 22,057 acres of water per county.

Vilas County

Vilas county has the state's largest water surface. It has 90,293 acres of lakes and the inventory shows a total water area of 92,440 acres. Oneida county has 69,014 acres in lakes while the survey shows 74,700 acres in water surface. The gap between the two figures is extremely wide in some counties. Adams county was listed as having 2,343 acres in lakes but its total water surface is 20,540. Highway 10.

Total water areas for the 32 counties where tabulations are complete are as follows:

Yves-Saint Laurent Crowned New King of Paris Fashion

BY NADEANE WALKER
Paris—(AP)—France has a new national hero.
He is 21-year-old Yves Mathieu Saint-Laurent, and it is considered that he has saved the reputation and prestige of French fashion, just as his predecessor, Christian Dior, saved it after the war.
Those who cried, "Christian Dior can never be replaced," when the fashion king died unexpectedly last Oct. 23, now are hailing young Yves' debut collection as the best Paris has ever produced. Scenes bordering on joyful hysteria followed the opening of his "Trapeze Line" show this week.
Behind all the fuss is a quiet, shy and painfully thin youngster who was 21 on Aug. 1. Yves Saint-Laurent was born in Oran, Algeria, the son of an insurance salesman, and he came to Paris to seek his fortune in designing theater decor at the age of 17.
Instead, he entered an international fashion designing contest, and won. Presented to Christian Dior with samples of his sketches, he was hired on the spot as understudy to the master. Great fashion designers are said to draw inspiration from the air of Paris, and Dior apparently decided that young Saint-Laurent had the stuff of greatness when he saw the boy's sketches were basically the same as his own still top-secret "A-line" for that year.
Without fanfare or credits, Yves worked with Dior for three years. Nobody had ever heard of him when the world's top designer suddenly died of a heart attack on holiday in Italy.
Heir Apparent
For a few weeks the fate of the vast Dior fashion empire was in the balance. Then a rumor went around that a young man named Yves Saint-Laurent, not even old enough to have done his military service, might be named by Marcel Boussac, the French cotton king who owns and backs the house, to take over.
Loud scoffs greeted the unlikely suggestion, but on November 15 the announcement was officially made that Saint-Laurent would carry on with three women who had been with Dior from the beginning. They are Madame Raymonde Zehner, Madame Marguerite Carre and Madame Mitzel Bricard, and the most knowing fashion experts say that this quartet should get exactly equal shares of the credit for the tremendous success they have brought off.
'Good Little Boy'
Young Saint-Laurent's first presentation to the press and radio did not inspire confidence. Pale, apparently frightened and with little to say, young Yves won only a condescending description as "a good little boy" ("enfant bien sage") from the French press. But the big build-up was under way by the time he went home to his parents in Oran to sketch the new Dior collection before Christmas.
In an interview with this correspondent a few days after he was named Dior's new designer, Saint-Laurent expressed a few firm opinions:

Yves Saint-Laurent, Left, New king of the French haute couture is shown during an interview with Associated Press correspondent Nadeane Walker. The 21-year-old successor to Dior gained bravos for his first Paris fashion show this season, at which he introduced his trapeze line variation on the sack silhouette.

"You can't impose fashions unless women are willing to let you," he said. "Skirt lengths ought to depend on the women who wear them; one length doesn't suit everybody."
But skirts in the first Saint-Laurent collection are uniformly just at the knee, and his ballooning silhouette is a drastic extreme of fashion. The audience loved it, so it may be assumed that women are willing.
Hermit of the House
The hero of this new French fairy tale still lives or did up until his opening day—in a modest one-room-with-bath in a dead-end street near the Trocadero.
Since Dior took him under his wing, Saint-Laurent has been practically the hermit of the house of Dior, working there constantly. But to some friends he confided that his first love was still stage decor and "I don't know how long I will be able to stay away from it."
It might have been his two young sisters, Bridget, 12, and Michele, 15, who inspired the "little girl dresses," very full from bust to hem, which are the biggest success of the Trapeze collection. It was reported that Yves took time to design some new dresses for Bridget and Michele while he was working on the Dior sketches.

Our Children Patri Gives Views on Plans for New School

BY ANGELO PATRI
New schools are going up all over the country and there is a lot of talk about what kind of schools they should be.
Each community has its own peculiar need and indeed every family with school children has its own ideas about what is needed. So the talk is necessary. It should be done in a town meeting, each neighborhood being its own "town" for the occasion. Meeting after meeting should be held and everybody, even the bitterest hating neighbor, should be allowed to talk himself out. This is the only way to reach the rightest decision possible.
One problem seems prevalent in the newer developments. Shall the new school be built with an eye to the growth of the children, elementary, junior high, secondary school. One building at a time, or all three in one building to start? One elementary school and that to be followed by the others as years pass? A new high school at a central site or three separate buildings on one big campus? The variations are many and the problems complex.
One way I would vote is for some sort of arrangement whereby all the children of a family go to the same place, if not in the same building, so that the younger children have some association with the older ones.
When the beginner knows that his big brother or sister is in the same building, or just across the campus he feels a bit of responsibility for him. "Keeps an eye on him."
It helps the teacher. She can call in the older pupil and tell him anything she thinks his mother should know about and so keep in touch with the family.
When the school is a unit from kindergarten through the secondary school the teachers become familiar with each family group and know about what to expect from them and the best way to get it. This continuity of association between home and school can be of the greatest help all concerned.
This "family school" idea might well be taken into consideration when selecting a new site for the school unit.

Beauty Fashion Focus Swings to Legs

This is the year to make the most of good legs—and if you aren't as lucky as some girls you will have to work to enhance yours as much as possible.
Shorter skirts are showing kneecaps in some high style clothes and whether or not you agree with this change, you will find the overall fashion picture calling new attention to legs. Colored hosiery is something we can all enjoy—delicate bluish tints of a color such as red or green are fun to wear. Shoes also help focus the eye on leg and ankle for they are colorful, have heels in new shapes and heights.
To make the most of all this your legs must be feminine and satin smooth. Shave or remove hair in your preferred manner and supply a film of good hand-and-body lotion immediately afterward. You know you remove some of that top layer of skin when you shave so treat yourself to this quick, soothing treatment. Bathe and scrub feet and legs to protect that smooth finish which enhances the sheerest hose.
Exercise legs and ankles to keep their contours trim and eye appealing. If you are young enough get down on the floor to Less strenuous would be walking and for a lazy miss a good ankle treatment would be to sit in a chair and extend legs straight out and circle foot first in one direction, then reverse. Do this several times a day when you have the opportunity.

'Peyton Place' Author, former Disc Jockey Wed

Elkton, Md. —(AP)— Author Grace Metalious and her agent Thomas J. Martin repeated their marriage vows in the quiet parlor of a retired minister last night, then headed for a honeymoon in New York.
The bride, author of the controversial best-selling novel "Peyton Place," and Martin, a former disc jockey, were married by the Rev. Walter Schaeffer, a retired Holiness Christian minister.
Both are 33.
The bride wore a light grey suit and carried a small bouquet of red roses, and Martin was attired in a grey suit.
Mrs. Metalious was divorced Tuesday from her first husband, George Metalious, who teaches history and commercial law at Stow (Mass.) High school.
As grounds for the divorce, she said her husband voluntarily abandoned her Oct. 14, 1956, about a month after Grace's book was published.
Metalious lost his job as principal of the high school in Gilmanston shortly before "Peyton Place" came out. School officials denied the book had anything to do with the dismissal.

NATO Objectives To be Report Topic At Zion Meeting

The principles and objectives of NATO will be viewed by Mrs. Jack Weiner at the March meeting of Zion Temple Sisterhood at a 1 o'clock dessert meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Stephen Freschl, 1507 W. Lorain court. Mrs. Weiner will also assist the hostess.

burl in a shallow dish of water in a warm, sunny window and see if it will sprout within a few weeks. If it doesn't show signs of life in two months, I'd return it for a refund.
Where can I buy a Ti log?
I wish I knew! We have had several requests for columns on these, but I cannot find a good mail-order source. It seems that the "logs" are sold mainly as novelties at home shows, flower shows, etc. Our sources list only rooted plants of these dracaenas.
Is it true that a Bird-of-Paradise plant will bloom when it has nine leaves?
Not necessarily. Bird-of-Paradise (Strelitzia regina and others) must be quite well along in years, established in the pot, and must have been given proper care before it will bloom.

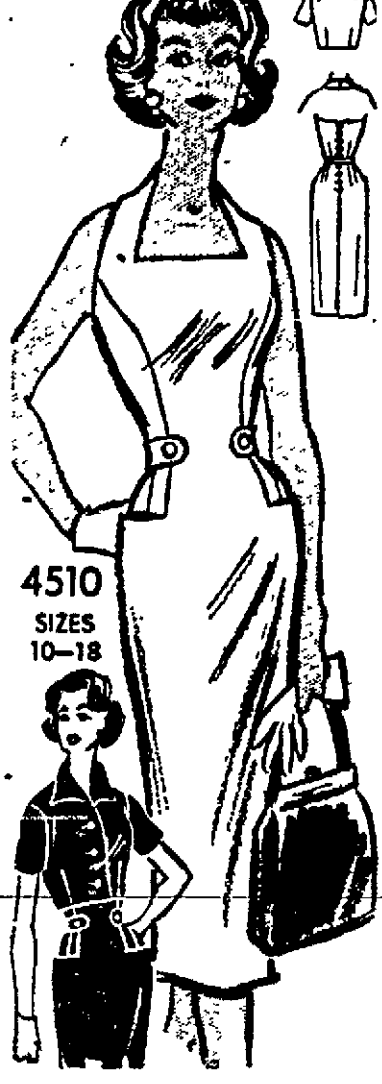

swear your request fully, but your public library undoubtedly has books on Bonsai.
I sent away for a redwood burl and when it arrived it was nothing but a chunk of wood that had obviously been sawed off something. Even the bark looked funny. Shall I ask for my money back?
Redwood burls always have one side showing where it was sawed from the tree, and the bark is an odd color and wholly unlike the bark of an oak or elm or maple. Why not set the

Your Problems Here's How Young Men Tag Girls at Their Bull Sessions

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm writing, not for advice, but because your column is an excellent forum for ideas. I hear it discussed everywhere.
Our son and nephew are sophomores in college. I wish the girls they date AND the parents of these girls could listen to these young men and their pals, discuss the young women on campus.
They categorize them in this way: (a) The Sure Things (b) Difficult But Not Impossible (c) Absolutely Nothing Doing.
This brings back memories of my own dating days, and how I rebelled at my parents' insistence that I be home at a certain time—not because they didn't trust me, or the fellows, but because they knew better than I the dangers of too much freedom.
They knew, too, that boys have more respect for girls if they can't hang around until daybreak. I remember how at least one of my parents was always at home to meet the young man I was going out with, and I never returned from a date to find an empty or dark house.
I hate to say this, but most young men today will take all they can get. It's up to the girls to draw the lines—and the parents can help immeasurably by exercising some restrictions.—NYWT
DEAR NYWT: Thanks for saying what I've been trying to say for years (and you said it better).
If these "modern" parents could get it through their heads that their daughters not only need, but WANT, controls, they'd tighten the reins. And if the gals who give so freely of their favors could hear the fellows talk—it would, in my opinion, alter their behavior considerably.
Dear Ann: My husband is only 37 years old but he looks like 60. Why? The reason is simple—but what's the answer? I'll put it to you.
A year ago he had all his teeth extracted. The dentist made him a beautiful set of dentures, and they cost a small fortune. But he refuses to wear them, and it makes me so mad I could spit nails.
You'd think a 37-year-old man would be ashamed to go around without any teeth but he just says, "Don't bother me" when I bring up the subject. The kids tease him but even that does no good. What do you suggest? —JESSIE

When a 37-year-old man would rather go around without a tooth in his head than wear his dentures, there's only one reason...the store teeth don't fit.
Urge him to go back to the dentist and get the dentures readjusted, or if necessary, a new set. It's extremely bad for his general health as well as his appearance to be toothless in the prime of life.
(P. S. Doesn't he go out of his mind when he sees steak?)
DEAR ANN: I'm in love with a girl who is 20 and she loves me, too. She has told me so many times. The problem is this: I'm a college student and I don't have money to take her to fancy places or buy her dinners like some of the other guys.
Her mother (who doesn't care for me) has been telling her that she's wasting her time because I'll never have anything, and her whole life will be a struggle.
Last night she told me that we'd better not go steady any more although she still loves me. She claims she wants to date others in order to satisfy her mother. What can I do to keep from losing her? I am 24 and won't be out of school for another two years (the Army, you know). —VAN
Dear Van: If this is "love" she caught a very light case of it, my friend. Real honest-to-goodness love doesn't know from fancy places and dinners. If this girl is sincere she'd settle for a bowl of chili and it would be more delicious than humming bird's eyebrow under glass.
Don't try to hang on. The show is over.

WHERE HELP IS NEEDED!

You and I...are the RED CROSS

It's hard to believe how serious a disaster can be unless it strikes close to home. When the volunteer Red Cross worker comes calling at your door... they're telling you the truth. The funds of the Red Cross are depleted due to more national floods, tornados, explosions and epidemics than ever before. Tomorrow it might be YOU saying... "I couldn't believe my eyes," so GIVE generously... so that none need lack for help in time of need.

PLEASE NOTE!

Employees of factories, stores, business establishments or offices will not be solicited at work for this drive, so please GIVE GENEROUSLY when your friendly volunteer block worker calls at your home.

Shawano High Trips Rocket Five, 78-73 and his presence was sorely missed.

The action had the fans screaming from the outset. Shawano rambed to an early 9-4 lead but Neenah fought back with eight straight points to go ahead 12-9. Long shots by Gharriy and Harley Lyons gave the winners a 13-12 lead at the end of a period.

Indians Lead by 8

Shawano continued its hot spell in the second frame and made the first five points to go afrent 18-12. At four different scores, the league titlists had an eight point lead, the last time at 34-26.

At the latter marker, Neenah began to come with a rush. Thomsen scored off the fast break and put in a free throw as he was fouled on the play. With 21 seconds left, Gries hit on one of his patented long souptaw throws and with five seconds remaining, Thomsen picked up a loose ball and put in a jump shot for a 34-33 Shawano lead at the intermission.

Hold Upper Hand

The Indians continued to hold the upper hand in the third quarter until at 40-37, Gries made another long throw and Thomsen hit on a jump toss to give Neenah a 41-40 lead, its first since the first period.

Shawano went back to work and Paul Timm made a basket and free throw and Carl Scott added two charities for a 45-41 lead and the winners were ahead for keeps. The lead varied from one point at 45-44 and 47-46 to five and it was 60-56 at the end of three frames.

Rockets Out Margin

Gries cut the margin to two with a basket to open the last quarter but Gharriy connected on a jump shot and two free throws to make the score 64-58. Two baskets by Bill Kuehl shaved the score to 64-62. Gharriy made two free throws when Seggelink fouled out for 66-62. With 4:31 left, Kuehl added another basket to slim the spread to two points again.

At that point, Ostepinski made a hook shot and Lyons hit on a jump shot for 70-64 with 3:32 left. After that, the closest Neenah came was 72-68 and Shawano's lead was up to eight at 78-68 and 78-70. Neenah made the last three points of the game.

Badger Boxers Meet Cougars In Madison Ring

Madison —(U)— University of Wisconsin boxers, with a draw and a loss under their belts in two matches this year, meet experienced Washington State in the ring here tonight.

The Badgers tied Michigan State 4-4, to open the season. Then they lost to San Jose State, 4-3-1. Washington State has won twice from the College of Idaho and lost to Idaho State.

Wisconsin has been handicapped by having to forfeit at 147 pounds because it does not have an experienced boxer at that weight. The lost point may be evened up with the Cougars, however. They have been forfeiting at 178.

fourth quarter, while St. Gregory counted 14.

Five Zephyrs hit in the double figures. Pat Below was high with 17 points and Gary Batley was right behind with 16. Bill Hickman had 12 for St. Gregory as he and Bernie Geiser were the only men on the team to count buckets. They each had four.

St. John started out fast taking a 14-6 lead but the Springs aggregation began to show its form midway in the period and shaved the lead to 17-15 at the end of the quarter.

22-Point Quarter

There was no stopping the Ledgers once they got underway and with Bill Nuss handling the rebounds and Mike Scott and Dave Wigton hitting from the sides they rolled for 22 points in the second frame. St. John's attack faltered and they scored only 12 markers to fall behind 37-29 at the intermission.

In the third period, Paul Kramer opened with a long shot to push the Springs lead to 10 points but Tom Geerts, improving St. John soph, cut the margin with a jump shot and free throw to make the score 39-32.

From this point Springs moved out to a 46-32 lead with seven straight points before Ed Hammen found the range for the Chuters.

St. John managed to pocket only two more goals in the period while Springs continued to hit from all angles and waltzed to a 59-38 lead at the end of the third quarter.

In the last eight minutes of action St. John managed to out-score Springs 18 to 15 but could not come close to the bulging lead.

All five starters for Springs scored in the double figures, as they played all but the last minute and a half. Wigton was high with 19, Kramer had 17, Tom Herre collected 14, Scott had 13 and Nuss bagged 11.

Ed Hammen had 16 for St. John, including 13 in the last half. Geerts bagged 14 for run-nerup honors.

as well, contributed 20 of East's points.

The unsung Bob Wittig possibly did more than either of the star scorers in greasing the skids under AHS. He ignited the East comeback by sinking four of his team's first five baskets in the tide-turning third quarter.

Jack Ulwelling led Terror scorers with 17 points, principally on the basis of a sparkling, 7-basket first half. He had little success finding the range after the intermission and added only three more points.

East is Harried

The Terrors made it look easy — almost too easy — as they poured in the game's first eight points and rambed to a 14-6 first quarter lead. Ulwelling and Howie Hamann each found the mark three times, as accurate shooting was combined with sharp passing and rebounding.

A harried and cold East team could do no better than 3-for-21 in its first quarter marksmanship.

After East closed the gap to 16-14, Ulwelling turned on the heat to pop in four straight shots and spark the Terrors to a 27-17 advantage. Each team added two more points before halftime.

Hughbanks free-tossed East to the first point of the third quarter. There was little hint of what was to come because Tom Verkuilen southpawed a 2-point-er through the hoop to put AHS in clover, 31-20.

Wittig began his quarter of glory with a jump shot. But Ulwelling sank a free throw and the Terrors led by 10 (32-22) with 1:14 of the period gone.

Six Fast Points

Terror fortunes ebbed with each passing second and with each shot-launched by Wittig. Prentice or Hughbanks. East scored 18 of the last 19 points in the quarter. The only AHS point in the final 6:46 of the period was a Bill Bedard free throw. East went out front to stay with 2:03 left in the quarter. Prentice made the lead 35-33 at that stage.

In the third stanza, the Terrors sank only one of 11 shots. Their shooting slump affected

Prentice scored the first point of the fourth period for a 41-33 lead. AHS came up with a minute's worth of points (four by Verkuilen and two by Hamann) that cut the deficit to 41-339 and gave the AHS rosters new hope.

After all, the Terrors had blown a 10-point lead at East last month and still had won. And, the thoughts of some Terror backers no doubt fled back to 1957 when AHS, hacked away a 14-point deficit in a magnificent fourth quarter against East.

There was to be no encore last night. Though the Terrors managed to stay in contention at 43-47, with 4:10 left, the bottom was about to drop out. The Terrors went scoreless for the final four minutes.

East began a semi-stall with about three minutes remaining. The hard-pressing and hard-pressed Terror defenders left the avenue to the basket open, and East responded for three "sleepers." In the closing minutes, the Red Devils — with the regulars staying in all the way — didn't bother to stall and added a couple of more goals. The winners shot goals at a 37.1 per cent rate (26 for 70) despite their dismal first quarter. The Terrors, whose point total was their lowest of the season, shot at 30.4 per cent (17 for 56).

Illini Athlete Repays $2,500 Scholarship

Lockport, Ill. —(U)— Tom Haller, University of Illinois athlete who signed a bonus contract for a reported $54,000 with the San Francisco Giants, says the university will receive $2,500 from the major league club.

Haller, a football, basketball and baseball letterman who had another year of eligibility, said Friday his contract with the Giants stipulates the University of Illinois Athletic association receive that amount.

Haller estimated the athletic association contributed that much towards his education in grants for his athletic scholarships.

"This isn't a scholarship I'm setting up," said Haller. "It's just a repayment of what the athletic association put in for my education. I thought it was only fair to repay the money since I can't continue to compete for the university."

FRIDAY'S RESULTS:

Iola — Weyauwega High's basketball Indians won their way into next week's Amherst district tournament by leading Amherst all the way for a 67-44 victory here Friday night in the finals of the Iola sub-district. The Indians got fine scoring balance with five players counting between eight and 18 points.

Scoring well from outside, Bill Barker dropped in 18 points, while rebounder Russ Klug collected 16, Mike Stevens and Gary Klug dropped in 10 and Jim Billington added eight.

Grab 14-9 Lead
The victors grabbed a 14-9 lead in the first period and were on top 29-25 at the half. A Weyauwega press in the final 16 minutes gave the winners a huge 38-19 point edge in the final two stanzas and they won going away.

Klug and Stevens helped give the Indians board control. 'Wega, which was hitting very well from the floor, used a zone defense most the way.

The Indians made 21 of 27 free throws. The Falcons collected just eight foul shots in 23 tries.

Iola shaded Manawa, 53-50, in the consolation game, leading all the way. The victors took a huge, 20-4 lead in the first quarter. Iola was outshot from the floor but made 17 of 29 free throws to Manawa's 12-for-19. Mike Allen and Tim Laughlin of the losers and Gene Voie of the victors counted 19 points.

Appleton compiled but an 18-14 second half margin as reserves saw considerable action.

Larold Lodholz, of the winners, took game scoring laurels with 13 points. LaViolette added 12.

Denmark and Stockbridge battled to a 21-21 halftime deadlock. But in the third quarter Denmark broke loose with 26 points while holding Stockbridge to six. Dick Schroeder led the way with 10 points in the Vikings' third period outburst and also had the game's high of 20 points.

Reedsville led all the way in the second game and by using a fast break, held a 31-13 lead at the half. Hilbert took a 22-9 lacing in the second period as the Panthers' Wayne Rameker and Tom Piepenburg pumped in 12 points.

The hosts held nearly a 20-point lead through the second half until a late rally enabled Hilbert to come within nine points when the game ended. Wayne Rameker led Reedsville with 15 points while Bob Loewe, Hilbert guard was the evening's high scorer with 26.

PSC Permits Abandoning of Berlin Line

Milwaukee Road To Take Off Two Passenger Trains

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The state public service commission Friday authorized the Milwaukee road to abandon its passenger trains on a line between Berlin to Milwaukee.

The order reverses a decision of eight months ago. It is the largest single passenger rail service abandonment of the state in recent years. The case is a dramatic illustration of the plight of the railroads in fighting for passenger patronage.

The record shows that patronage has steadily declined. Losses on the two trains amount to more than $50,000 a year.

The commission explained it refused approval last July, because it was not convinced the service could not be performed more economically.

Won't Reduce Crews

Railroad unions have refused to approve a reduction of crews for the lightly-patronized run, the PSC said. Studies, it added, have shown that self-propelled single cars—such as the so-called Budd Car—would not be feasible. Such cars might also be unsafe, it was found.

The railroad tentatively suggested that it establish bus service, through contract with the Greyhound line, if the commission found the railroad must continue to provide passenger service.

But the commission ruled that bus service must be considered independently of railroad service and that the existing service by Greyhound over the same general route is producing substantial financial losses for the bus company.

The Milwaukee road will continue to provide freight service on the Milwaukee-Berlin line.

Paper Machines at Bergstrom Mill Hit Production Records

Improvements During 1957, Plans for 1958 Result of Engineering Studies

Neenah — Bergstrom Paper company set several new daily production records during 1957, according to the annual report of the company. One machine hit 108 tons on one day and the other machine's top production was 91 tons for one day.

The best record over a period of one month for both machines was 151 tons and throughout the year the daily average was 142 tons.

Ever increasing production and improved quality are continuing targets for the company's research and technical control division, the report continued. During the year a beta ray gauge was installed, enabling machine tenders to make quick, accurate adjustments in their operations.

Utilization of waste paper, the company's basic raw material, was increased to a high of 156 tons per day. New agitators and stainless steel tanks were purchased for the starch and clay coating preparation system, the report mentioned.

Early in the year, a study by consultants was authorized to determine steps necessary to satisfy present high steam demands and to anticipate still higher future demands. As a result of the study one boiler now is being rebuilt and new controls and instrumentation added.

Will Rebuild Generator The company's main generator and turbine also are listed on rebuilding schedules. Some time ago Bergstrom Paper company embarked upon a plan for distributing power through high-voltage centers. Present rewiring of the generator to 4,160 volts is but one step in a program to be spread over several years.

Also last year, according to the annual report, new systems were introduced for materials handling. In some parts of the plant, floors were covered with steel plate, reducing damage to rolls. A new roll header facilitated wrapping. Scales which print weight have been added along with automatic roll elevator and quick-opening air operated doors. The materials handling costs have shown a marked reduction.

A leading engineering firm has been retained to work on innovations for paper machines and wet and dry machines at the safety paper division because of the serious and critical nature of drying paper.

The Oliver on the No. 4 machine was rebuilt, cutting white water losses and rebuilding of the No. 3 machine Oliver is scheduled for this year.

Employees Given Cash Awards for Going Two Years Without Lost-Time Mishap

Neenah — Employees of the cutting department at Hardwood Products corporation Friday afternoon were presented with cash awards in recognition of that department's record of having worked two years without experiencing a lost-time injury.

This is the third department in the last 16 months to establish such a record.

year scholarships to any school of their choice, but the monetary stipend attached to the award will vary with the student's family's resources, his summer income and the varying school costs.

This is the third year that scholarships have been awarded. About 1,400 students in American colleges now are there on scholarships awarded in 1956 and 1957. The corporation was founded several years ago with a grant of $20,500,000 from the Ford and Carnegie foundations.

Boys' Brigade To Study Book On Personality

Character Building Guide Becomes Part Of Regular Program

Neenah — The seventh and eighth grade Boys' Brigade groups will begin a comprehensive study of the late William H. Danforth's guide to character building, "I Dare You!" as part of regular brigade training next week, according to Jack Casper, brigade coordinator.

Danforth, former chairman of the board of the Ralston Purina company, was active in youth work for much of his life and wrote the book stressing the "fourfold life" of physical, mental, social and religious development.

The brigadiers will take these four facets of personality in order in their four-week study of his book. Often referred to in previous years by brigade leaders, the book has never been a formal part of brigade training.

Next year it will become a part of the regular seventh grade program.

The seventh and eighth graders will meet Tuesday night.

The tenth graders Monday will continue their driver education program by seeing eight motion pictures on various driving topics provided by the Ford Motor company.

The special interest groups will meet as usual, with the exception of the Drum and Bugle corps and the art group, which have suspended operations during Lent.

The Girls Rifle club will meet on Sunday afternoon.

Proper Care Keeps Band Box Look in Blouses

Oshkosh — The "band box" look for spring will be easy to achieve when several dacton blouses are included in your wardrobe, says Miss Lois Klusmeyer, county home agent.

Dacton takes little effort to keep its immaculate appearance and correct laundering practices will keep your blouses looking fresher longer.

Most important is to wash the blouse before it gets too soiled. Special attention to collars, cuffs or other soiled areas will make the blouse easier to launder. White blouses should be washed separately to avoid any chance of picking up other fabric colors.

Rub a thick paste of heavy-duty detergent and water into the soiled areas, advises the agent. Wash the blouse in heavy-duty detergent by forcing suds up and down through the fabric without wringing or twisting. Then rinse the blouse in at least two warm water rinses. Place on a non-staining hanger and shape the collar, cuffs and seams in place. Let dry and touch up with a cool iron.

Quick Breads, Including French breakfast puffs, Boston brown bread and apple muffins were made by Winnebago county homemaker project leaders at a training session Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Rufin Skiba, 509 Isabella street. Preparing the breads above are Mrs. Skiba and Mrs. Clarence Radtke. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Quick Breads, March Topic Of Homemaker Clubs, are Made by Project Leaders

Neenah — Quick breads, an easy and economical way to add interest and variety to a meal and to supplement the bread supply is the subject for Winnebago county homemaker clubs this month. The first in a series of leader training meetings was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Rubin Skiba, 509 Isabella street, and was conducted by the county home agent.

Quick breads receive their name because of the leavening agents such as baking powder and soda used in the preparation. In addition to commercial preparations, air can be incorporated into the product through beating for such breads as popovers. Water changing to steam also helps with raising the products.

Quick breads are divided into two groups, batters and doughs. Batters, mixtures that can be beaten or stirred, are used for popovers, griddle cakes and muffins. Doughs are mixtures thick enough to be kneaded or handled and may be stiff or soft doughs.

The various ingredients used in the breads and the importance of each was explained at the meeting. Project leaders were divided into groups with each group making a different bread product. Technic in measuring and handling each of the ingredients were emphasized, since the method of mixing affects the texture and quality of the product. Thick batters containing more flour in proportion to the liquid should be stirred only enough to moisten the dry ingredients, while additional beating of a thin batter such as that for popovers, will not make the product tough.

Project leaders prepared a basic baking powder biscuit, Southern spoon bread, apple muffins, French breakfast puffs, Boston brown bread and whole wheat fruit quick bread.

Breakfast Puffs
Ingredients for French breakfast puffs are one-third cup soft fat, one-half cup sugar, one egg, one and one-half cups sifted flour, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg, one-half cup milk, one-third cup melted butter, one-half cup sugar and one teaspoon cinnamon.

Mix together the soft fat, sugar and egg. Sift the flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg. Add dry ingredients and milk alternately to the fat mixture. Fill greased muffin tins two-thirds full. Bake 350 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Immediately dip the muffins in the melted butter and then roll in the mixture of sugar and cinnamon. The recipe makes 12 medium sized muffins.

Apricot Bread
Apricot bread is made with two cups sifted flour, one-fourth cup brown sugar, one teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt, one well-beaten egg two tablespoons melted shortening, one cup sour milk and one-half cup ground dried apricots.

Mix and sift the dry ingredients together. Wash the apricots and put through the medium blade of a food chopper. Rub them into the dry ingredients. Combine the beaten egg fat and milk. Add to the dry ingredients all at once and stir until only the flour is dampened. Pour into a greased four by eight inch pan and bake for 45 minutes or until done at 350 degrees.

The Winchester center will meet Monday at the Grace Lutheran church and the Allenville center Thursday at the home of Mrs. Arlen Christiansen. All of the half-day meetings will begin at 1 o'clock.

A PRICELESS RECIPE

In a health emergency, the little slip of paper on which your physician writes his prescription is priceless. You wouldn't part with it under any circumstances.

However once the emergency has passed, human nature being what it is, you are apt to forget how valuable the prescription really was. Maybe you even grumble a little at its out-of-pocket cost, failing to remember the doctor's professional skill, the countless hours of pharmaceutical research and many other factors that made the "recipe" possible in a health crisis.

Permit our prescription department to fill your next "recipe for health."

Macs Travel to Kiel for Second Playoff Battle

Menashans Must Win to Remain in EW Title Picture

Menasha — The Menasha Macs will attempt to keep their title hopes alive when they travel to Kiel for a 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon game in the Eastern Wisconsin Basketball league playoff.

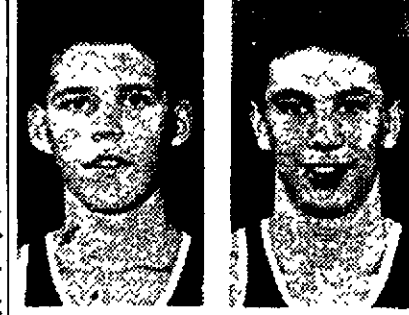

Kiel defeated the Menashans 69-68 here last Saturday night in the first game of the best two of three game playoffs. A Kiel victory tomorrow would eliminate the Macs while a Menasha win would set up a third game for next week. The site for the finale, if needed, will be determined after Sunday's clash.

The Macs had a 29-26 field goal advantage in the initial test last week but committed 26 fouls to 17 by Kiel and the latter took advantage of its free throw opportunities to pile up enough points for the win.

The two teams split even during the regular season, each winning at home. The Macs are slated to defend their championship in the Kaukauna amateur tournament next weekend.

Selbach, Nelson Combine for 58 Points in 74-67 Decision; Brault Paces Losers With 23

Two Rivers — Sparkling scoring efforts by Gordy Selbach and Don Nelson, who combined for 58 of their team's points, led Menasha to a 74-67 Mid-Eastern conference victory over Two Rivers here Friday night.

The victory gives the Jays an 8-6 conference record and undisputed possession of fourth place and dropped the Raiders down into fifth with 7-7.

It climaxed a brilliant second round comeback for the Menashans, who after meeting the other seven teams in the conference the first time around went down in sixth place with 2-5. But in the second crack at their league foes, they won six of seven, reversed four of the first five losses including one over champion Shawano and came within a whisker of winning the sixth, bowing to Neenah after two overtimes and a round of free throws.

Selbach, who always seemed to be at the right spot when there was a loose ball, came up with 13 baskets and four free throws, his high point total of the season and top effort by a Menasha player this year. Nelson wasn't far behind with 28, making eight baskets and 12 free shots in 15 attempts.

Both outdid Two Rivers' Ron Brault, the conference's No. 2 scorer, who led the losers with 23 points on 11 baskets and a free throw. Dale Kozlowski, a promising junior was next in line for the Raiders with 18 markers.

Jays Rally
Menasha had to achieve the victory the hard way, by coming from behind. They had a 14-all deadlock at the end of the first period but were outscored 18-12 in the second frame and were down 32-26 at half-time.

At one mark in the third period, the Raiders led by seven at 38-31 and they were holding a 49-43 advantage with 2:30 left in the segment.

The Jays then came to life and in the last 2:40, they collected seven straight points and at the same time blanked their foes to capture a 50-49 edge going into the fourth session.

Take 68-65 Edge
The lead changed hands a few times in the fourth frame until with 2:49 left the Jays had a 68-65 advantage. Jerry Kozlowski then dropped in a pair of free throws and the Menashans were out of danger.

Menasha, which came up with 24 points in each of the last two periods, was paced by Selbach in the third with 13 while Nelson had 14 in the fourth. The two combined for 21 of the 26 made by their team in the first half. Brault's big period was the third when he canned five buckets.

Both teams made 27 field goals but Menasha connected on 20 free throws as Two Rivers fouled 22 times. Menasha only committed 15 fouls and Two Rivers converted 13 free tosses.

Finance Unit to Air $461,444 Bond Issue

Money Needed for Changes, Additions To Grade Schools

Kaukauna — The finance committee of the common council will meet at 6:30 Monday evening in the council chambers to discuss a proposed $461,444 bond issue for school improvements.

The board of education has asked the council to appropriate that amount for improvements and additions to Park and Nicolet grade schools. The request was made at the last council meeting and school board members asked aldermen to take prompt action to permit work to get underway this spring with a possible eye toward completion by the time school opens in fall.

The building additions contemplated are new gymnasiums or all-purpose rooms at both schools. These additions will serve the schools as lunch area for a hot lunch program, a place for a physical education program, basketball games, a small auditorium, a meeting room and other various purposes.

Cost Breakdown
These additions are planned at both schools and are expected to cost about $489,650. Remodeling plans call for complete modernization of the interior of existing buildings to provide more classroom space, better lighting, recessed lockers in halls, acoustical ceilings, additional washroom facilities and other improvements.

Cost of the remodeling at Park school was set at $138,230 with an additional $2,800 for equipment for the new classrooms and $10,684 for architect's fees. Cost of the remodeling at Nicolet was set at $118,136, the same amount for new equipment and architect's fees at $10,141.

The finance committee is expected to make a report to the common council at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening after which the council will study and vote on the recommendations of the committee.

Honeck Possibility as State Court Justice

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Gov. Thomson confronts what is probably the most important patronage decision of his gubernatorial career as he contemplates the task of appointing a lawyer to the state supreme court to succeed Roland Steinle, who is resigning.

At the same Wyngaard time, the observer is bound to reflect that there tury. As lawyer, attorney general and politician, he will doubtless know personally most of the men who will make themselves available for his consideration and will be able to judge their capacities somewhat more reliably than did Gov. Kohler, for example, or Gov. Rennebohm, or Gov. Goodland, who appointed the other men now on the court.

Already, of course, there is speculation about the succession to what most lawyers regard as the most desirable position in Wisconsin affairs. But speculation must be idle in this situation, not only because there will be so many candidates that any list of names must be incomplete, but because the governor's celebrated caution will probably come into play here as never before.

HONECK?
When the Steinle vacancy was made known, most knowledgeable speculation instantly turned to Attorney General Stuart Honeck. Honeck is a well-qualified lawyer. He wants the job. He is a friend of Thomson. There are precedents for the nomination of an attorney general. It could easily be assumed that he would be the favored candidate. But there is nothing certain about it. It can be remarked almost as a certainty that Thomson has made no commitment, whatever political assumptions may be. It can also be forecast that the governor will take his time. Actually there is no great reason for fast action. The supreme court is already looking forward to its spring adjournment.

While Honeck would be a suitable appointment—as a lawyers' lawyer—there will be many other men of similar attainments and aspiration. There also are traditions involved, including some that are rarely mentioned out loud. For years there has been an unspoken agreement that the court shall be divided according to religious affiliation. The vacancy raises the question: will that tacit rule be followed again? If it is, someone other than Honeck will land the plum, for Justice Steinle is a Catholic and Attorney General Honeck is not.

THE DEPARTURE

During modern times men have rarely retired from the court pinnacle voluntarily. It has been said that Steinle did so in order to make himself free to run for senator. That was doubtless a motive. But it was not the whole story. Justice Steinle had left the impression among his friends for some time that he was contemplating retirement—quite aside from the possibility of a partisan political trial. He was not wholly satisfied with the life of a judge. Salary was one of the elements. He has been working for $12,000 a year. His comparatively low pay—against the $17,500 nominally allowed—relates to the exigencies of constitutional law. The basic law of the state is that a state officer cannot have his pay raised during the term for which he was elected. The court has found ways to waive that law for other state officers, but not for itself. Only one judge, in fact, is now getting the full pay permitted by statute. He is Judge Currie of Sheboygan.

Councilmen To Vote on Bridge Bonds

Finance Committee May Add Sewer Needs In Separate Issue

City Councilmen Wednesday night will be asked to authorize sale of $600,000 in bonds to pay the city's share of College-Candee high level bridge construction costs.

The council's finance committee voted to make the recommendation after hearing City Atty. Don L. Jury report that bonding consultants believe issues of $600,000 will attract as many bidders as issues totaling more money.

Tuesday asked Jury and City Clerk Elden Broehm to investigate whether there would be an advantage in combining the bridge bonds and $1,100,000 in Huntley school bonds.

The board also wanted to know whether a sewer bond issue, which definitely would be in the unadvantageous class if offered alone, could be tied to the bridge bonds.

Finance committee men Thursday gave Chairman Ervin J. Bogan permission to put the sewer issue with the bridge bonds if Director of Public Works Edwin J. Duszynski is ready with preliminary plans and has an estimate.

Mayor Robert L. Roemer reported to the board Tuesday that state highway engineers have reduced the bridge cost estimate by $150,000.

Separate Issues
Of the new total, the city, county and state share costs equally. The new estimate is $1,600,000.

Duszynski said this morning he will take proposed sewer improvement projects to the street and sanitation committee Monday and should have some idea of the amount of work the committee wants before the council meeting. In the past, the committee usually has asked for upwards of $200,000 for sewers.

Jury explained to the finance committee that while the bonds issues could be offered together they still are separate issues. Bonds can be sold only for specific purposes and proceeds used only for specified projects, he said.
